b. Construction and Port Area At [] another oil berth. Here "a group of eight pipes of about 8-10" in diameter, on saddles 8-10' above the deck, circle the quay." This array of pipes extends completely around the quay, near the edge [] "new" pipes have been run on a raised platform directly over the old pipes. The old pipes were three in number, 8" in diameter. The new ones are approximately 12" in diameter and there are about three times as many. The new pipes were not yet in use [] the old pipes were still carrying the oil. Diagram of new structure is below:

[] two new steam railway locomotives. []

[] the port seemed quiet, outside of the petroleum area.

c. Navigation and Port Controls [] presence of a new buoy at 44°08'30"N - 28°52'E. Its characteristic is a white light flashing every eight seconds. The buoy makes a "sizeable" contact on the radar scope.

d. Miscellaneous Matters [] the people in subject port gave [] impressinn of being "subdued." [] no evidence of prostitution, and no cases of VD were reported [] the language barrier as great; a very few spoke Italian or German. [] all the officials encountered were Rumanians. The Rumanians stated [] all the Soviets had departed.

Apparently one of each of the AQUILA and the RECELE FERDINAND class DD were out of port. The "patrol launches" sighted were probably of the VG class patrol vessel. The training ship was undoubtedly the MIRCEA.

d. Probably the OCTOMBRIE ROSU (RM) is the old merchant vessel "OCTOBRE" referred to as laid-up in the harbor.
